The aim of this study was to examine the effects of polyethylene glycol on sulfasalazine absorption and metabolism. Absorption of sulfasalazine from the intestinal lumen was investigated in rats in vivo by measuring the sulfapyridine content in portal blood. The sulfapyridine concentration in the portal vein was unchanged by pretreatment with polyethylene glycol (150 to 750 mg/kg). Neither treatment with sulfapyridine (200 mg/kg) nor with polyethylene glycol (450 mg/kg) changed the plasma concentration of the sulfapyridine metabolite, 5-hydroxymethyl-5-sulfapyridine. The hepatic contents of sulfasalazine and sulfapyridine and the urinary excretion of sulfapyridine were unaffected by pretreatment with polyethylene glycol. The results indicate that absorption of sulfasalazine was not affected by the pretreatment with polyethylene glycol. What is really going on in politics?
