It has multiple spaces and the spaces are not explicitly taken into account when searching for the string. The easiest way to make sure it is correctly fixed in all files is to use sed. sed -i -r's/\+/ /g' yourFile.txt If there are strings where there should be only spaces, use this to replace spaces: sed -i -r's/ /\s/g' yourFile.txt Example: $ echo "Test string" | sed -r's/\+/ /g' Test string $ echo "Test string" | sed -r's/ /\s/g' Test string So, don't be surprised when the search part of sed is not working properly. P.S. I used GNU sed version 4.2.1. I am at a local detention center. One of my friends was sent to San Quentin for a robbery she didn't commit, and died in her cell. In terms of American citizens, who has rights? I don't think any of us do, do we? The people I'm working for have never seen their money back, their jobs back. Why are they supporting these rulers? It makes no sense, and in the end, don't they know that they are supporting the rise of another Hitler? These people have suffered so much already. It is our job to protect them, not to torture them. You could say, 'but terrorists are still out there.' yes, but what are they doing? They're killing our people, they're killing the people they've supported. Do they feel some kind of guilt? The government does not, they want to believe that their victims are the terrorists. They don't want to know that the terrorists are working for their money. How can I feel sympathy for someone who has destroyed my life, and that of so many others? How can you say I am responsible? What about the hundred million other Americans who live in poverty? How can I feel empathy for them when 3da54e8ca3
